

Wound Drains

Cardinal Health offers a complete line of reservoirs and wound drains from Jackson-Pratt®, including classic perforated-style drains and silicone channel drains that provide improved drainage and high-tensile strength.

The company's wound drain portfolio also includes the uniquely designed Hemaduct® wound drain, which features a system of multiple ducts and lumens interconnected through a series of internal portals to provide more effective distribution of suction and fluid flow. Hemaduct improves collateral drainage by providing pathways around obstructions and minimizes aspiration of delicate tissue with its narrow ducts and recessed portals.
