

Laparoscopic Instrument Mimics Human Finger

Microline's LapFinger is a 5 mm laparoscopic instrument that mimics the movements of the human index finger with a reusable handpiece and interchangeable, disposable tips. The instrument helps facilitate advanced laparoscopic procedures by reaching behind and around objects. It can also dissect and retract tissue in providing tactile feedback to the surgeon when palpating tissue, even to the point where one can discern between soft tissue and hard masses.

For more information, visit www.microlinesurgical.com [1]

Source URL (retrieved on 01/26/2015 - 2:17am):

http://www.surgicalproductsmag.com/product-releases/2011/02/laparoscopic-instrument-mimics-human-finger?qt-recent_blogs_articles=0

Links:

[1] <http://www.microlinesurgical.com/>