

Doppler Blood Flow Monitor

Published on Surgical Products (<http://www.surgicalproductsmag.com>)

Doppler Blood Flow Monitor

Cook Medical has launched the Doppler DP-M350 Blood Flow Monitor, a medical device for transplant and reconstructive surgery, that monitors blood flow during free flap procedures. According to the company, the monitor has the ability to detect changes in blood flow immediately following transplant and reconstructive surgeries so a surgeon can intervene before free flap failure. With flow indication lights and audio confirmation, the system allows surgeons to continuously monitor for loss of patency or thrombosis.

For more information, visit www.cookmedical.com [1]

Source URL (retrieved on 01/25/2015 - 3:19pm):

http://www.surgicalproductsmag.com/product-releases/2011/09/doppler-blood-flow-monitor?qt-recent_content=0

Links:

[1] <http://www.cookmedical.com/>