

Azure

Trulife's Azure conforms to the individual's unique body shape, providing the protection required to effectively alleviate pressure and nerve damage. After use the product will return to its original shape, and will contour to the shape of each individual user. The ultra-soft and lightweight gel base, combined with the top layer of TRUGEL work together to replicate the body's tissue and skin. The soft and volumetric properties allow the patient to sink into the protective product and for effective weight distribution.
