Advanced Medical Innovations

unveiled the Neutray Sharps Passing Tray for hands-free transfer of sharps during a surgical procedure. It has been specifically designed to handle many of the different styles of sharps used in today's operating room. It has a unique instrument pick-up area that protects the practitioner's hands from sharps or contaminated instruments unlike anything else available in the market today. It can handle virtually all sharps in surgery. This includes scalpels & blades; needle/needle holders (all sizes); syringes; sharp instruments (like Iris Scissors); K-wires; trocars, and others. Two trays can be interconnected as an option for a one-handed needle exchange system.
